The Columbian.

VOL 27. BLOOMSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, JANUARY 29, 1892. NO. 5

The county statement will appear next week.

The report of the Millville Farmers' Institute was crowded out of last week's issue. It appears on the inside this week.

Get your sale bills printed at THE COLUMBIAN office. We have a new supply of stock cuts and put out the best bill for the money.

A force of about fifty men have been employed the past two weeks in setting poles for the long distance telephone, or rather in repairing the old poles by longer ones, some of them being over fifty feet high.

J. S. Williams, auctioneer, sold the Brown property in Mifflin township, Thursday of last week, at an advance of over $200 over the bid of several weeks ago. The bills were printed at this office.

With a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house, you have an effective remedy for all sudden attacks of throat and lung troubles. An hour's delay may lead to serious consequences. No household should be without this wonderful medicine.

Local institutes will be held during the month of February as follows: For Beaver, Main and Mifflin, at Mifflinville, Saturday 6; for Benton, Jackson and Sugarloaf, at Benton, Saturday, 20; for Center and Scott, at Espy, Saturday, 27.

All teachers of the district for which the institutes are held should be present the entire day.

Directors, parents and pupils are cordially invited to attend.

Exercises will begin at 10 o'clock.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Lutheran Church will give an interesting entertainment Saturday evening in the Lutheran Church. The first part of the entertainment will consist of recitations, dialogues and songs by the little folks. The second part will be magic lantern views of the Rocky Mountains. These views will be explained by one who spent several years among the most beautiful scenery in the world. An hour, listening, and seeing these views will be better than a visit among the scenes themselves.

There are two big gangs at work on the Lehigh Valley Company's Williamsport railroad by way of Harvey's Lake, Bowman's Creek, and Lopez. One gang is on the Williamsport end another at the Bowman's Creek terminus. A report from one of the construction bosses says that the ends are not quite two and one-half miles apart. The weather has been favorable to the work, and it is likely that the gap will be closed and the new road opened before March 1st. As the river bridge is ready to receive the Williamsport business it is probable that no time will be lost in getting the line opened. The railroad distance from this city to Williamsport will be reduced by more than thirty miles, and the Lehigh Valley trains will of course carry all the business to that section from both the Wyoming and Lackawanna Valleys. The section through which the new road extends from Harvey's Lake is a wilderness which, when opened by this railroad, will become at once a great lumber country. Wilkes-Barre Times.

Mrs. Anna M. Bodine died on Thursday morning of last week, at the ripe old age of 82 years, 5 months and 25 days, after a short illness. For some years past she had been quite feeble, and her death was due to the effects of a heavy cold. The funeral took place on Monday last, at 10 o'clock, from the residence of John Ervin, where deceased had made her home since the death of her husband, twenty-seven years ago. Services were held in St. Matthew's E. L. church, which was filled to the doors with relatives and friends. Rev. Myers preached the funeral sermon, which was an unusually fine discourse, and was assisted in the services by Rev. P. A. Heilman, Bloomsburg, and Revs. Moses and Neiman, of this place. The interment took place in the Union cemetery beside her husband. Deceased was a noble woman, possessed of a kindly, loving disposition she made friends of all, and though ripe for the harvest her death is deeply mourned by the entire community, by whom she was loved and respected. For sixty-seven years she had been an earnest and consistent member of the Lutheran church, and with her husband was a charter member of St. Matthew's E. L. church. Five children survive her—Rev. J. V. Bodine, Tallmans, N. Y.; William F. and J. Dallas, Bloomsburg; Mrs. Jacob Ervin, Milton; and Mrs. John Erwin, of this place.—Catawissa News Item.

FOUR ELECTION DISTRICTS.

The commissioners, consisting of John R. Townsend, Wm. Kreamer, and C. H. Moore, who were appointed at December Court to make division of the election district of West Bloomsburg, met at the Court House last Saturday to carry out the duties of their appointment. After examination of the district they have made a report to be submitted at the next Court, which would fix the boundary lines to be as follows. Centre street to be the central division line; then beginning at Centre pass out Fourth street to Railroad, out Railroad to Fishingcreek, up Fishingcreek to Centre street, down Centre street to Fourth, which will constitute the first district. The remaining portion lying west of Centre street will constitute the second district of West Bloomsburg. According to this division, and upon the basis of the last registry, the first district will poll 239 votes and the second district 236 votes. They recommend that the voting place of the first district be fixed at the West side of the Court House, and for the second district at the corner of Fifth and West street.

The commissioners appointed for the division of East Bloomsburg, consisting of C. A. Kleim, F. P. Drinker and Matthew McReynolds met Monday to perform their duties. They have fixed Fourth street as the division line of East Bloomsburg. All residents north of Fourth and East of Centre streets to be included in the third district with a voting booth at the Town Hall. All residents South of Fourth and East of Centre street, to be included in the fourth district with a voting booth at corner of East and Sixth streets. The third district would have about 300 voters and the fourth 373. Both reports will be filed at February Court.

Heilman, who was pastor for five years in Denver, Col., and has visited these interesting points that will be shown to you on the screen. The proceeds are for the benefit of the missionary cause. THE OLD BOARD NOMINATED.

According to announcement the members of the standing committee comprising the Bloom poor district met last Saturday afternoon for the purpose of placing in nomination two candidates for poor directors. It has been customary for years for the Democratic party to have nominations made for directors of Bloom poor district, by the members of standing committee embraced in the district, and in accordance with the rule of the party, nominations thus made should be as binding upon members of the party as if made by a convention. The members of the standing committee thought it proper to nominate those who have served one term, since their first term had given general satisfaction. The following, members were present at the meeting: Bloomsburg, east—J. R. Townsend; Bloomsburg, west—J. H. Mercer; Greenwood, east—G. W. Utt, substituted for Adam Utt; Greenwood, west—Eyer Allen; Scott, east—F. W. Redeker; Scott, west—John Wanick; Sugarloaf, north—I. B. Gibbons; Sugarloaf, south—W. A. Kile. The following names were placed in nominations: J. M. Larish, Sugarloaf; A. C. Hidley, West Scott; Adam Utt and Wesley Morris, Greenwood; F. C. Eyer, Bloomsburg.

Upon call of roll the vote was as follows: A. C. Hidley, 6; Adam Utt, 2; Mr. Hidley was declared the nominee.

The second ballot was as follows: J. M. Larish, 6; Adam Utt, 2. Mr. Larish was declared the nominee.

EAST BENTON.

Simon Tubbs, of Benton township, died last Saturday night, at the residence of his son, Nathan. He was born in the year 1800—hence a little over ninety-two years of age.

Protracted meetings are still in progress at Hamlin church.

Judge Knickbaum had an attack of the grip. He says the disease has the right name.

Two weeks of confinement from the grip pulled us down a "peg or two."

A great many people asked us how we felt when we had the grip. It is impossible to tell. Actual experience gives the true information, which the recipient cannot impart to another. All we have to say is, good-by, grip.

Philip Gibbons and wife are just beginning to emerge from the loathsome disease—grip. Harmon Stine has also partially recovered from the same disease.

Bruce Dresher and wife also had a serious time with the grip. Alvin Dresher and family were also afflicted with it.

ONE HUNDRED MILES AN HOUR.

ELECTRIC CARS TO RUN AS STRAIGHT AS AN ARROW BETWEEN ST. LOUIS AND CHICAGO.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27.—A company has just been incorporated in Springfield, Ill., for the purpose of building an electric road from here to Chicago.

The company proposes to build a double track road, as straight as an arrow, without a curve in in it. On this road it is proposed to run electric cars, which will travel at the rate of 100 miles an hour, making the distance in two and one-half hours, instead of eight as now. The power station will be at Clinton, Ill., where the company will operate its own coal mine for fuel, using electric drills and mining machinery.

In time the entire line is expected to become a boulevard, the farmers' houses standing on city lots, while behind them will stretch the wheatfields The houses will be lighted and heated by electricity, and the reapers, mowers and threashers will be driven by chained lightning. An electric block system will be operated and the track will be automatically illuminated a mile ahead and a mile behind each car. Trains which are on the same section will have telephone connection, and communication may be had whether the trains are moving or standing still.

Dr. Adams says nearly the entire right of way has been secured, and that within a few weeks the contracts will all be let. The company will endeavor to have the line in operation in time for the World's Fair.

"Increased fever, pulse feeble, legs and ears cold, and physical prostration." "Inflamation of the bowels. Give the horse the usual quantity of Bull's-Head Horse and Cattle Powder."

To the top of Pikes Peak and back again the same evening—three miles above sea level—in the Lutheran church, Saturday evening.

ABOUT TOWN.

POINTS PICKED UP BY A STROLLING REPORTER.

John R. Townsend, whose candidacy as a delegate to the National Democratic Convention was announced a couple of weeks ago, has decided not to ask for the place. It is purely an honorary office, there being no pay connected with it, and the expense attendant upon it being considerable. For many years there has been no contest for the place. For twenty years or more the late David Lowenburg represented this district without opposition, and at the last Presidential convention it was conceded to Judge Murphy without any contest. Mr. Townsend has been chairman of the Democratic County Committee for the past two years, and has performed the duties of that thankless position in a manner entirely satisfactory to the party, and it would have been a graceful act to have sent him to the National Convention. There are other aspirants for the place however, and Mr. Townsend being unwilling to engage in any contest has concluded to withdraw. The fight is now between Robert Buckingham and William Krickbaum and it promises to be waged with vigor.

The last two Saturdays have been unlucky days for certain parties. First an attempt to capture the Secretaryship of the Agricultural Society proved a failure, and second, they were not permitted to manipulate the nomination of Democratic candidates for Directors of Bloom Poor District. If there is anything in omens, this does not promise well for Mr. Krickbaum's candidacy for delegate to the National Convention. It looks as if he isn't in it.

Enameled iron shelving with nickle trimmings has been placed in the new Law Library in the court house. The commissioners have exercised good taste in the purchase of the fittings about the court house, and when it is completed, Columbia county can look any of her neighbors in the face when it comes to a comparison of court houses. There is some talk of having an appropriate opening when the building is entirely done.

The Bloomsburg people, I observe, either think they know what to do with their boys, or else they do not take any interest in that question. The lecture by Dr. Waller last Friday night at the High School, on the subject of "What shall we do with our boys?" was attended by forty-two people, when there should have been two or three hundred. What is the matter, Mr. Editor? Wouldn't it be a good plan to get some body to lecture on this question. "Why do not the parents of the boys of Bloomsburg take more interest in the future welfare of their sons?"

The remaining lectures of the course for the purpose of procuring books for the Fifth Street School Library, ought to be well attended. Prof. Coughlin will lecture on Feb. 22, and Rev. W. C. Leverett on March 18.

There is a possibility that there may be some complications in the election of Poor Directors for Bloom District, as there is some talk of an independent candidacy. The matter ought to be well considered before any such step is taken, as the Democratic candidates were fairly named in the regular way.

The other day on going into THE COLUMBIAN office, I was particularly struck by the great improvement made in the business office, by a rearrangement of the desk and counter. Better light, more room, and a more business-like appearance all around. The show case with its stock of calling cards, programme &c., can now be seen to advantage in the front office. Why didn't you make this change long ago?

Many people who filled their ice houses with thin and dirty ice before the last cold snap of this week are wishing that they hadn't been in so much of a hurry, now that good ice can be procured. It is hardly likely that an ice factory will be started here this year, as the cold weather has done away with the necessity for it. Josiah Giger and C. E. Welliver will no doubt, both secure a good crop of the congealed bi-oxide of hydrogen with which to keep their customers cool next summer.

A paper was circulated on Wednesday by John Wolf and I. W. Hartman, among the merchants, asking them to close next week at 7:30. It was very generally signed. The object is to afford everybody an opportunity to attend the revival meetings.

I noticed recently in both the Philadelphia Times and Press a statement that Mr. Buckalew wants the congressional delegates of this county instructed for him this year. No doubt he can secure such instructions, if he desires them, provided he does not wait too long before letting his wishes be known.

STROLLER.

MRS CHARLES P. SLOAN.

On Friday morning, January 22nd, at about half past eight o'clock, Phoebe, wife of Charles P. Sloan, passed from earth to her eternal reward. She had been ailing for some months, but had been able to be out, and attend to her household duties. Her final illness confined her to her bed but two weeks. On Thursday night at half past ten she fell asleep and peacefully and painlessly slept her life away. Her death was not expected by the family, and was a great shock to the entire community. The funeral took place at the house on Monday afternoon at two o'clock, and was largely attended. Rev. W. C. Leverett conducted the services.

Mrs. Sloan was a daughter of the late Dr. Lott, formerly of Orangeville. She was born in 1839, and was married to Charles P. Sloan in 1863 and lived in Bloomsburg from that time until her death. Of the Lott family, but two brothers remain, her father and mother and several sisters having preceded her to the spirit world. Of her family, her husband, two sons and two daughters survive to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and loving mother.

Mrs. Sloan was a member of the Episcopal church, and one of the most active workers in all matters that pertained to the Ladies Guild and the general welfare of the parish. She will be missed in the family circle, in the church, and in the community, for she was an exemplary woman. The sorrowing friends have the consolation of knowing that in this bereavement that has come upon them, they have the heartfelt sympathy of all people.

Among the relatives who were present at the funeral were her brother Dr. Lott, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Chamberlin, James Chamberlin of Plymouth, W. C. Sloan of Philadelphia, Morris Sloan of Scranton, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rishton, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Evans and many others from out of town.

Last Thursday a party of ladies went from Bloomsburg to Stillwater to spend the day with the family of ex-sheriff Smith. They were very kindly received and made to feel perfectly at home. At one o'clock they were called to dinner, it is needless to say all did justice to Mrs. Smith's good cooking. The day was passed very pleasantly with games and dancing, music being furnished by Prof. Deihl of Stillwater. The exsheriff said come again, and no doubt they will.

The second ballot was as follows: J. M. Larish, 6; Adam Utt, 2. Mr. Larish was declared the nominee.

Simon Tubbs, of Benton township, died last Saturday night, at the residence of his son, Nathan. He was born in the year 1800—hence a little over ninety-two years of age.

Protracted meetings are still in progress at Hamlin church.

Judge Knickbaum had an attack of the grip. He says the disease has the right name.

Two weeks of confinement from the grip pulled us down a "peg or two."

A great many people asked us how we felt when we had the grip. It is impossible to tell. Actual experience gives the true information, which the recipient cannot impart to another. All we have to say is, good-by, grip.

Philip Gibbons and wife are just beginning to emerge from the loathsome disease—grip. Harmon Stine has also partially recovered from the same disease.

Bruce Dresher and wife also had a serious time with the grip. Alvin Dresher and family were also afflicted with it.

ONE HUNDRED MILES AN HOUR.

ELECTRIC CARS TO RUN AS STRAIGHT AS AN ARROW BETWEEN ST. LOUIS AND CHICAGO.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 27.—A company has just been incorporated in Springfield, Ill., for the purpose of building an electric road from here to Chicago.

The company proposes to build a double track road, as straight as an arrow, without a curve in in it. On this road it is proposed to run electric cars, which will travel at the rate of 100 miles an hour, making the distance in two and one-half hours, instead of eight as now. The power station will be at Clinton, Ill., where the company will operate its own coal mine for fuel, using electric drills and mining machinery.

In time the entire line is expected to become a boulevard, the farmers' houses standing on city lots, while behind them will stretch the wheatfields The houses will be lighted and heated by electricity, and the reapers, mowers and threashers will be driven by chained lightning. An electric block system will be operated and the track will be automatically illuminated a mile ahead and a mile behind each car. Trains which are on the same section will have telephone connection, and communication may be had whether the trains are moving or standing still.

Dr. Adams says nearly the entire right of way has been secured, and that within a few weeks the contracts will all be let. The company will endeavor to have the line in operation in time for the World's Fair.

"Increased fever, pulse feeble, legs and ears cold, and physical prostration." "Inflamation of the bowels. Give the horse the usual quantity of Bull's-Head Horse and Cattle Powder."

ABOUT TOWN.

POINTS PICKED UP BY A STROLLING REPORTER.

John R. Townsend, whose candidacy as a delegate to the National Democratic Convention was announced a couple of weeks ago, has decided not to ask for the place. It is purely an honorary office, there being no pay connected with it, and the expense attendant upon it being considerable. For many years there has been no contest for the place. For twenty years or more the late David Lowenburg represented this district without opposition, and at the last Presidential convention it was conceded to Judge Murphy without any contest. Mr. Townsend has been chairman of the Democratic County Committee for the past two years, and has performed the duties of that thankless position in a manner entirely satisfactory to the party, and it would have been a graceful act to have sent him to the National Convention. There are other aspirants for the place however, and Mr. Townsend being unwilling to engage in any contest has concluded to withdraw. The fight is now between Robert Buckingham and William Krickbaum and it promises to be waged with vigor.

The last two Saturdays have been unlucky days for certain parties. First an attempt to capture the Secretaryship of the Agricultural Society proved a failure, and second, they were not permitted to manipulate the nomination of Democratic candidates for Directors of Bloom Poor District. If there is anything in omens, this does not promise well for Mr. Krickbaum's candidacy for delegate to the National Convention. It looks as if he isn't in it.

Enameled iron shelving with nickle trimmings has been placed in the new Law Library in the court house. The commissioners have exercised good taste in the purchase of the fittings about the court house, and when it is completed, Columbia county can look any of her neighbors in the face when it comes to a comparison of court houses. There is some talk of having an appropriate opening when the building is entirely done.

The Bloomsburg people, I observe, either think they know what to do with their boys, or else they do not take any interest in that question. The lecture by Dr. Waller last Friday night at the High School, on the subject of "What shall we do with our boys?" was attended by forty-two people, when there should have been two or three hundred. What is the matter, Mr. Editor? Wouldn't it be a good plan to get some body to lecture on this question. "Why do not the parents of the boys of Bloomsburg take more interest in the future welfare of their sons?"

The remaining lectures of the course for the purpose of procuring books for the Fifth Street School Library, ought to be well attended. Prof. Coughlin will lecture on Feb. 22, and Rev. W. C. Leverett on March 18.

There is a possibility that there may be some complications in the election of Poor Directors for Bloom District, as there is some talk of an independent candidacy. The matter ought to be well considered before any such step is taken, as the Democratic candidates were fairly named in the regular way.

The other day on going into THE COLUMBIAN office, I was particularly struck by the great improvement made in the business office, by a rearrangement of the desk and counter. Better light, more room, and a more business-like appearance all around. The show case with its stock of calling cards, programme &c., can now be seen to advantage in the front office. Why didn't you make this change long ago?

Many people who filled their ice houses with thin and dirty ice before the last cold snap of this week are wishing that they hadn't been in so much of a hurry, now that good ice can be procured. It is hardly likely that an ice factory will be started here this year, as the cold weather has done away with the necessity for it. Josiah Giger and C. E. Welliver will no doubt, both secure a good crop of the congealed bi-oxide of hydrogen with which to keep their customers cool next summer.

A paper was circulated on Wednesday by John Wolf and I. W. Hartman, among the merchants, asking them to close next week at 7:30. It was very generally signed. The object is to afford everybody an opportunity to attend the revival meetings.

I noticed recently in both the Philadelphia Times and Press a statement that Mr. Buckalew wants the congressional delegates of this county instructed for him this year. No doubt he can secure such instructions, if he desires them, provided he does not wait too long before letting his wishes be known.

STROLLER.

MRS CHARLES P. SLOAN.

On Friday morning, January 22nd, at about half past eight o'clock, Phoebe, wife of Charles P. Sloan, passed from earth to her eternal reward. She had been ailing for some months, but had been able to be out, and attend to her household duties. Her final illness confined her to her bed but two weeks. On Thursday night at half past ten she fell asleep and peacefully and painlessly slept her life away. Her death was not expected by the family, and was a great shock to the entire community. The funeral took place at the house on Monday afternoon at two o'clock, and was largely attended. Rev. W. C. Leverett conducted the services.

Mrs. Sloan was a daughter of the late Dr. Lott, formerly of Orangeville. She was born in 1839, and was married to Charles P. Sloan in 1863 and lived in Bloomsburg from that time until her death. Of the Lott family, but two brothers remain, her father and mother and several sisters having preceded her to the spirit world. Of her family, her husband, two sons and two daughters survive to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and loving mother.

Mrs. Sloan was a member of the Episcopal church, and one of the most active workers in all matters that pertained to the Ladies Guild and the general welfare of the parish. She will be missed in the family circle, in the church, and in the community, for she was an exemplary woman. The sorrowing friends have the consolation of knowing that in this bereavement that has come upon them, they have the heartfelt sympathy of all people.

Among the relatives who were present at the funeral were her brother Dr. Lott, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Chamberlin, James Chamberlin of Plymouth, W. C. Sloan of Philadelphia, Morris Sloan of Scranton, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rishton, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Evans and many others from out of town.

Last Thursday a party of ladies went from Bloomsburg to Stillwater to spend the day with the family of ex-sheriff Smith. They were very kindly received and made to feel perfectly at home. At one o'clock they were called to dinner, it is needless to say all did justice to Mrs. Smith's good cooking. The day was passed very pleasantly with games and dancing, music being furnished by Prof. Deihl of Stillwater. The exsheriff said come again, and no doubt they will.

Thanks are extended to Mr. Fleckenstine for the careful driving which he did.

Report says a party of young folks from Bloom put up at Rice's Hotel on Friday night the 22nd. The report is hardly credible as the racket they made by yelling and blowing on a tin horn gave evidence that they were from "away back".

COLUMBUS.

Give me white paper;
This which you use is black and rough with smears
Of sweat and grime and fraud and blood and tears—
Crossed with the story of men's sins and fears,
Of battle and of famine, all these years,
When all God's children have forgot their birth,
And drudged and fought, and died like beasts of earth.

Give me white paper;
One storm trained seaman listened to the word.
What no man saw he saw; he heard what no man heard.
In answer he compelled the sea
To eager man to tell
The secret she had kept so well.
Left blood and guilt and tyranny behind,
Sailing still west the hidden shore to find,
For all mankind that unstained scroll unfurled
Where God might write anew the story of the World.

—Edward Everett Hale.

TOO LATE.

"If I could only have a few flowers in the window, and a new carpet for the best room floor," sighed Laura Dymond.

A soft voiced, fragile looking little creature, with big, troubled eyes, like a fawn's, and long lashes that almost touched her cheek when she looked downward, there was something about the delicate woman that reminded one of a hothouse blossom. She should have been tenderly nurtured and sheltered, as it were, from the rude winds of heaven; but we do not all settle into our proper niches in this world. In the next, heaven grant that it may be different with some of us.

"Flowers!" echoed Hugh Dymond contemptously. "And a new carpet! Fiddle-de-dee! Lolly, what can you possibly be thinking of, when we need a wing to the barn and a new yoke of steers so much? But women are always going off on a tangent after the ornamental!"

Mrs. Dymond looked round the bare walled room, with worn rag carpet, its stiff backed chairs, and its pine table, and sighed. Mr. Dymond went on with his occupation—that of whittling out a wooden pin for the dooryard gate.

"Well," he said nonchalantly, "what are you groaning about?"

"I wasn't groaning; only, Hugh——"

"Well."

"I should so like to have some few pretty things about me!"

"Fu-u-udge!" grumbled the husband. "As if this was a world of outside show!"

"Oh, I don't mean that; but after all, you know, we none of us have but a few years to live, and——"

"Now, come, come!" interrupted the husband, "don't let's have any of this nonsense!"

"I don't think you quite understand me, Hugh, dear. What I mean is——"

"Yes, I do too; what you mean is, that you'd like to sit with your hands folded, a bouquet opposite, and a fine velvet carpet under your feet. Pity you hadn't married a rich man."

Little Laura Dymond winced slightly; but she was used to these sharp words and stinging retorts on her husband's part. It was the diamond mated with the rough flint—the slender stemmed anemone springing up beneath the shadow of the rude Canada thistle. She told herself, many times a day, that she did not mind Hugh's way—she was used to it; but the falsehood was fresh every time; she did mind his rough way, and she never could get used to some of those sharp, sudden words and looks.

She had been a district school teacher when Hugh Dymond married her, and all the idea she had of the existence of a farmer's wife was roses clustered round a picturesque porch, strawberries and cream, a cool dairy with green light coming through the vine leaves at the casement, and whippoorwills singing on the edge of the woods at night! Poor Laura! it might have been a silly delusion, but it was a brief one. To use Mr. Dymond's own emphatic expression, "there wasn't any nonsense about him. Good pork and potatoes, and plenty of 'em; a shingled roof overhead, and furniture that was good enough for his mother before him; if a woman wanted more than these she must go somewhere else than to the Dymond farmhouse!"

Yes, it was all very solid and substantial, but Laura could no more thrive on it than a humming bird on a diet of beef tea!

"I could draw my own $50 out of the savings bank," said she doubtfully, "and get a fresh, pretty carpet. And oh, Hugh, I'm so tired of the worn spots in the striped rag carpet, and we really do need it in the sitting room."

"Bother!" responded the unceremonious husband. "Keep your $50 for something that's going to be really useful. A clean board floor, and plenty of soap and sand; that was all the carpet my mother ever asked for."

It is such hard work to scrub it twice a week, Hugh!" pleaded the poor little wife.

"Oh, if you're afraid of work, that's all I have to say," said Mr. Dymond, shrugging his shoulders.

"Unnecessary work, Hugh."

He made no answer, but Laura knew from the set look about his lips that her innocent appeal had been made in vain.

"The flowers would cost nothing," she went on. "Mrs. Jenkins would give me the slips, and Lizzie Clouney has some old pots which——"

"Pshaw!" broke out Hugh. "If you want to garden, go out and weed the onions and cabbages; I'm sure they need it badly enough; but as for having the window sills cluttered up with a lot of green trash, it's what I won't stand! So now you've got my opinion, and I hope you feel better."

And he rose to his feet and quitted the room, taking care to shut the door with a bang that set Laura's nerves all in a quiver.

She sat down and cried, the poor little solitary creature, when he was gone. She had thought so much of the carpet and the flowers; she had got it all planned out in her mind, and now Hugh forbade it. Well, there was no help for it; she must go back to the beaten track. Perhaps Hugh was right; only— And then Laura cried again.

"I don't know what's the matter with her," said the puzzled husband. "She don't complain; only she won't eat or laugh, and goes around with her head hanging down like a sick chicken. It's rather hard on a workingman, who has married a wife to be a helpmeet to him. At this rate I shall have to hire a girl!"

"I shouldn't wonder," said the old doctor, dryly. "It's the nervous system, Dymond."

"Oh, pshaw!" ejaculated Hugh. "Nerves? I don't believe in such a thing."

"You'll have occasion to before long," said Doctor Meynell.

"I haven't any nerves."

"But other people may have, nevertheless."

"Lolly never told me she had such a thing the matter with her," said Hugh, speaking with an injured air. "But if there's any particular kind of medicine would do her good, and it isn't too expensive——"

"She must have entire change of air; total change of scene," said the doctor. Dymond's countenance fell.

"And what am I to do, all by myself at home? Very selfish and inconsiderate of Lolly to——"

The old physician's benign countenance darkened; his brows contracted of a sudden.

"Man, man," he said, hold your rash tongue! You've no idea what you are talking about! Suppose God, in His infinite mercy, sees fit to take her from you altogether?"

Hugh Dymond sat staring as if a levin bolt had stricken him to earth.

"You don't mean——. She—she's not going to die, doctor? My little Lolly; it isn't so bad as that!"

"How can we tell? She has been worked down to a mere shadow of herself; you have treated her as you would a dumb beast; and it isn't the kind of life she had been used to, poor little blossom!"

"My God!" groaned the husband, dropping his face in his hands, "I never dreamed of this!"

Doctor Meynell's heart softened as he watched the strong shudder thrill through the repentant man's iron frame. He did love her, then, after all; he was not so utterly heartless as he seemed; it was only thoughtlessness, not deliberate tyranny.

"Tell me what to do, doctor," groaned Hugh Dymond. "If it costs me all I have in the world, Lolly shall be saved!"

"Let her go back to her mother at the seashore for a few weeks, advised the physician. "Change, rest, pleasant society—these will do much for her. And when she comes back to you in the fall let us hope it will be with renewed hope and courage.

And so Laura Dymond was sent away for change of air and scene. The tears gushed into her eyes when she had parted from her husband.

A week afterward Hugh hitched up his brown nag and drove to the nearest town; and before night the "best room" floor was covered with a cheerful red carpet, strewn all over with little green leaflets and wood brown sprays of moss.

"Lolly will like the pattern," thought Hugh, "because it's like something real. How pleased she will be! And the hearth rug is to match the carpet, and the Nottingham curtains will freshen the windows, and I'll have both the casements filled with tea roses and geraniums, for winter is coming on, and she can't get any more of those posy pots in the woods. I'm sorry now that I used to laugh at them so."

When the first November snowflakes eddied softly through the air, Hugh took his last triumphant look at the cheerful room, where the roses and violets made a June like scent, and the fire crackled and the new carpet glistened in its cheerful colors.

"Have tea all ready in your best style, Maranda," he said to the new "hired girl," "for I shall bring your new mistress home in just an hour."

And Maranda, a plump, thriving "daughter of the soil," promised that "all should be right."

"He must think a deal of her, to be sure," said Maranda to herself. "I wonder if she really is so very pretty."

"The train isn't in yet, I suppose," said Hugh, glancing around, as he tied old Dobbin to the post, back of the depot fence.

The station master shook his head.

"No; but here's a telegram for you, Mr. Dymond—came half an hour ago.

With trembling fingers Hugh Dymond broke open the seal. Perhaps Laura was not coming until to-morrow—perhaps

"Come to Seaglen at once," it read. "Your wife died this morning at 4 o'clock."

The strip of senseless, cruel paper fell from the bereaved husband's hand; he staggered back against the wainscoted wall, with a low cry, like that of one in mortal pain. Lolly dead!—Lolly gone from him forever!—the little loving, wistful, dewy eyed creature, whom he had spoken to so cruelly, many and many a time! And he had resolved to be so different for the future—to cherish her so tenderly. Lolly dead! Surely, surely there must be some mistake; he could not believe it.

And then, like the rush of some damp, sepulchral wind across his heart came the awful conviction that it was but too true. The bright new carpet, with the leaves and the moss sprays, had come too late—the flowers would bloom in the casements all in vain!

It was too late now—too late! And so began and ended the sweetest idyl in all Hugh Dymond's life. The carpet is rolled up on the garret floor, the flowers are dead and gone, and the red leaves of a score of autumns have woven their jeweled crown over Laura's grave; but the sharp, envenomed sting of remorse has not gone out of Hugh's heart yet—no, nor ever will.

He—Oh, fair angel, sent from heaven to cheer my lonely life! O, peri of some undiscovered paradise! O, light of my life, heart of my heart, I kneel before you in humble supplication, adoring you as never woman was adored by mortal man! I—— She—That's all right, but, say, do you love me?—Boston News.

CHILI MUST RETRACT.

The President Sends His Message to Congress.

EXCITEMENT IN WASHINGTON.

No More Temporizing—Egan Will Not be Recalled—Chili Must Apologize or Diplomatic Relations Will Cease—What is to be Demanded.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—President Harrison's message on the Chilian situation, accompanied by the documents, correspondence, &c., in the case, was sent to Congress to-day.

The message reviews all of the evidence in the case, and says he feels compelled to stand upon the demands of the note of the 21st to Minister Egan.

These demands are that the Chilian Government must apologize and make reparation for the assault upon the Baltimore's sailors on October 16.

That the Matta circular note of December 13 must be withdrawn.

The language must be disavowed with as much publicity as it was circulated or diplomatic relations with Chili will cease.

Mr. Egan's recall will not be considered until these matters are disposed of.

The president in stating his reasons for making these demands, advised that they be confirmed and enforced by Congress.

Excitement in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. There was intense excitement in Washington this morning in anticipation of the developments of the Chilian crisis.

The president confidently expected to have a message from Chili within a few hours, making some sort of reply to the ultimatum in the shape of three demands which the United States Government has made.

It was said that if a cable telegram came it would not necessarily cause the president's message to be withheld.

The general excitement was heightened this morning by the rumor which was persistently circulated since last night that Blaine had died suddenly.

This report was started early last evening, and created the greatest excitement all over the city. It was soon found to be only a rumor.

HARRISON'S FRIENDS ANGRY.

They Say Chili Would Apologize But for Blaine.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—All is seeming peace and quiet at the State, War and Navy Departments this morning. War talk has subsided wonderfully, and all the wiseacres are now predicting peace.

Secretary Tracy still continues his preparations for possible hostilities.

He says that there is no news at his department to-day and can be none because the Yorktown, with Commander Evans, has sailed away from Valparaiso with the refugees, leaving the navy unrepresented at the port. Any cable despatches therefore must, during the absence of the Yorktown, come to Santiago to the State Department.

Much of the feeling that war with Chili has been averted is due to the belief that President Harrison and Secretary Blaine have had a serious misunderstanding over the question of how soon an apology should be peremptorily demanded.

That there is the bitterest feeling between Harrison and Blaine no one here doubts, and perfunctory state dinners, at which outward politeness is manifested, do not serve to shake the general belief that a break between the president and secretary of State is imminent.

One of the gentlemen who were at yesterday's conference in the White House said that the president's close friends aver that Chili would have been brought to terms long ago, but for Mr. Blaine's appeals for time and conciliatory measures.

When will Harrison and Blaine separate? is now the question of the hour, and is discussed with more eagerness and spirit than the question of whether war will occur or where the Democratic National Convention will be located.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 21.—David Doramus, aged ninty-two years, died at Closter, N. J., of grip, and arrangements were made for his funeral this afternoon. This morning his wife, also aged ninety-two, died of the same disease, and it was settled that she should be buried with her husband to-day.

CHEATING IN HORSE BLANKETS

Nearly every pattern of 5/A Horse Blanket is imitated in color and style. In most cases the imitation looks just as good as the genuine, but it hasn't the warp threads, and so lacks strength, and while it sells for only a little less than the genuine it isn't worth one-half as much. The fact that 5/A Horse Blankets are copied is strong evidence that they are THE STANDARD, and every buyer should see that the 5/A trade mark is sewed on the inside of the Blanket.

W. B. GERMAN,
Millville, Pa.

Millville Farmer's Institute.

Farmer's Institute at Millville convened on Tuesday evening, January 12, 1892 as per announcement in Programme. The music and a recitation by Eddie Smith were very highly appreciated. Prof. J. M. Coughlin, A. M., of Wilkesbarre spoke in his pleasing, forcible and instructive manner on "The Relations of the Schools to Agriculture." The changed conditions, in all lines of thought and action, impose greater responsibilities upon all, and the plodding and indolent will be left behind. An ability to discriminate closely, to spell correctly, to read understandingly and to write plainly and rapidly should be attained by all. Correct habits are all important, and honesty and integrity are demanded.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

After some discussion upon the question, why is it that clover does not blossom and bear seed now as in former times? the regular programme for the Institute was entered upon. E. M. Tewksbury of Catawissa spoke upon "The Pennsylvania Farm," The farms do more for the country than all other industries combined. Pennsylvania Farm is—first, a good place to do work, second, it is a good place to spend money, third it is a place well taxed.

What it should be: First, it should be a place where we have rest and pleasure as well as work. Second, it should have the advantage of better schools and of the postal system. Third, it should be a place fairly well taxed.

An instructive paper by H. W. Northrup, of Glenburn, on "Fruit Culture." After fruit trees are well started to growing it is necessary that they should be fertilized. Unbleached hard wood ashes is the best fertilizer as it contains potash, and this is the principal ingredient of the apple wood. The best known way to destroy the enemies of fruit trees is spraying them. The increase in production is marked where this is done.

A discourse followed by Rev. James Calder, of Harrisburg, on "The Uses and Abuses of Pruning." Pruning is the proper thing to do, but it must be done with care, else the tree is injured. In some instances pruning the roots have produced fruit on trees that otherwise were non bearers

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

A lively discussion upon the fruit question was continued. The fact was emphasized that great care should be taken not to make the spraying solution too strong. It will seriously injure the tree.

Music by Millville choir.

An essay by A. F. Heller, of Turbotville, "A Farmer's Boy," Farmers' boys make the true, substantial and independent men.

A discourse on "Pennsylvania History," by R. S. Searle, of Montrose. He desired to instil into the minds of all, younger or older, that right here in Pennsylvania was the most desirable place to live. Do not go west. From the time that the first Swedish colony settled in the State to the present, the population has increased four million. In every sense of the word she is the Keystone State.

A paper by Hon. John P. Edge, of Downington, Pa., on the "Geological Survey of Pennsylvania and its Cost and Benefit to Farmers." Appropriations are being given each year for this work, $1,500,000 having been expended up to this time.

A short talk by A. P. Young, of Millville, on "Another Year's Experience with the Silo." The time for adjournment having arrived the subject was continued for to morrow.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

Music by Jennie Funk and Mary Smith.

Tableaux, "Cotter's Saturday Night."

Music by Millville choir.

Recitation by Bernice Eves, "Grandma's House."

Rev. James Calder, of Harrisburg, addressed the meeting upon "What Chinese Farmers Teach us." With but few exceptions the Chinese are just the opposite in their ways and manners from their antipodes, the Americans. The Emperor owns all lands and the people all live in villages and go out each morning with their farm implements to till the soil, and return to the villages in the evening, Grains are not grown in that country; rice and tea being the principal products. The Chinese are generally heathens, but they are more true and devout in their manner of worshipping their idols and spirits than many of our more enlightened people. The American farmer should heed this lesson from the Chinese, that intensive farming is more profitable than extensive. Cultivating the soil is the chief occupation of the Chinese.

THURSDAY MORNING.

A. P. Young gave further information in regard to the Silo. Do not build too large. This is a common fault. To preserve feed for ten cattle build a silo ten feet square.

A. P. Young offered two resolutions as follows;

Resolved, That we earnestly ask the Superintendent of Public Instruction to inquire into the feasibility of, and if possible devise a more efficient plan for the establishment of graded schools in every district.

Resolved, That we favor the full maintenance of the entire system of public instruction by the State.

WHEREAS, Postmaster-General Wanamaker has been investigating the matter of Free Mail Delivery in the rural districts, therefore

Resolved, That we hereby extend to Mr. Wanamaker our sincere thanks for the interest thus taken in our welfare and urge that he perfect the system as rapidly as possible.

These resolutions were adopted by the Institute.

E. H. Little read a paper on "Agriculture."

Hon. John P. Edge, of Downington, read, "Why do Farmers Complain?"

Prof. S. B. Helges, of York, Pa., gave the "Chemistry and Characteristics of Soils," in a very able paper.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

Questions were asked and discussed upon the paper read before the morning session adjourned.

Music by Millville choir.

A paper by W. B. Sheddan, of Pottsgrove, on "The Farmer and the Chemist."

Music by Millville choir.

Recitation by Bernice Eves, "Grandpa's Sear."

A paper by J. P. Welsh on "What has the Farmer to do with Education?" The best productions of the farm are its boys and girls. It doubly repays the farmer to educate his sons and daughters. It does not drive them away from the tarm, but broadens their ideas and views of life, and their capacity for enjoyment, and their chances for successful farming.

Recitation by J. M. Patton, "Apples."

Thus closed the fifth annual Farmer's Institute held at Millville, Pa.

3 OF EVERY FOUR { Diseases which afflict mankind are due to disorders of the blood. In fact, if the vital fluid is kept in good condition, the tendency to any disease is lessened by three fourths. A harmless vegetable remedy, which cleanses the blood, should be taken occasionally by every one. In the young, it assists in the development of the body and mind. In the adult, it helps nature to keep up the equilibrium of strength, which is taxed by the labor and cares of life. To the old and those with the infirmities of age, it is invaluable for its tonic and strengthening powers, to prevent diseases which are so often fatal to old people. This remedy is Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) It clears out all the germs and poisons, and builds up the human organism. We will mail free a valuable book to all applicants.

The young man looked around hastily.

The girl wearily.

"Oh," he said, with a short laugh, "it almost startled me."

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desire, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Mrs. Gotham—"The paper says that chewing wintergreen will keep people awake in church."

Mr. Gotham—"It might be—but, at the theater, I have found cloves very efficacious."

Murdered.

The body of Julius Baer was found by freighters five miles west of here Tuesday morn, in a terribly mangled condition. His head and face were smashed, so as to be hardly recognized, and numerous wounds were found on his body. Mr. Baer was agent for the great blood medicine, Sulphur Bitters. Robbery was undoubtedly the motive, as he was well known to have a large sum of money on his person. As we go to press there is no clew to the perpetrators.—Colorado Press. 1-22-2t.

One evening as they sat beneath
The moon's soft rays so pale,
Moved by an impulse, born of love,
He kissed her through her veil.
Next evening, as before, they sat
Beneath the star-flecked dome,
Yet not exactly as before,
She'd left her veil at home.

Prevention is Better

Than cure, and those who are subject to rheumatism can prevent attacks by keeping the blood pure and free from the acid which causes the disease. For this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla is used by thousands with great success. It is the best blood purifier.

Constipation is caused by loss of the peristaltic action of the bowels. Hood's Pills restore this action and invigorate the liver.

The evil that men do lives after them; but a whitewashing committee can easily fix it so it won't hurt them during life.—Puck.

By a very ingenious and original process, Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., of Lowell, Mass., are enabled to extract the essential properties of the materials used in the preparation of their famous "Ayer's Sarsaparilla," thus securing a purity and strength that can be obtained in no other way.

I have been a sufferer from catarrh for years. "'TWAS EVER THUS."

A Would Be Public Benefactor Who Was Not Appreciated.

"Please give me a dime."

I was seated in the Mall at Central Park looking at the statue of "Robbie" Burns and thinking thoughts that many a man has thought before about his ill starred life, when my reveries were thus turned into another channel. I didn't like it.

"Why the devil should I give you a dime?" I replied sharply, hoping thereby to get rid of him.

But it didn't have the desired effect. He wasn't an every day sort of tramp, although his apparel was shabby enough. There was a moldy air of better days about him. He heaved a whisky tainted sigh, and seating himself alongside of me—I couldn't resent that, because he had just as much right to a seat as I had—he began to unfold his tale.

"I recognize in you," he began, "a kindred spirit. I, too, am a worshipper at the shrine of genius. Nothing delights me so much as to see the memory of great men fittingly honored. Years ago, in a fit of generous enthusiasm, I conceived a scheme which, had it been favorably received, would have filled this park and all other parks and public squares in the land with statues of mankind's greatest benefactors.

"But pardon me," he added, interrupting his narrative, "do you happen to have the mate to that cigar about you?"

I told him that I hadn't.

"Well, never mind, I ain't particular; I'll take a chew of tobacco, if you happen to have it."

I told him I had none.

Another whisky tainted sigh impinged itself upon my olfactory organs, and then he continued:

"Nothing so helps a man to rise superior to the petty and soul enthralling concerns of every day life as the contemplation and study of true greatness. To assist in the attainment of that lofty state of mind there is nothing so effective as the presence of the counterfeit presentments of men who have towered like sun kissed mountain peaks above their fellows. With that conviction strong upon me I abandoned the haunts of men and gave myself up to thought. In due time the inspiration came. At the lowest estimate there are 4,000,000 men in this country who get shaved by barbers on an average three times a week. At an absurdly low estimate that involves an expenditure of 30 cents a week by each man. That, sir, as I have proven over and over again, amounts to $1,200,000 a week, or $62,400,000 a year.

"Just think of it! All that money practically thrown away. I proposed that these 4,000,000 should form a vast 'anti shave' or 'shave yourself' association, and that the money thus saved should be put into a fund to purchase statues for beautifying our parks and places of public resort. All the reward that I asked was that I should be made the treasurer of the fund. Had the scheme been carried out the artistic beauties of ancient Greece would be as nothing compared with ours. But my scheme fell unheeded on the miserable horde of mercenary self seeking men who libel this country by calling themselves Americans. That was 15 years ago. As you may perceive, if you observe me closely, I have not shaved from that day to this. I tried to be a public benefactor. Society scornfully rejected my offering. Therefore, society owes me a living. And that, sir, is why I ventured to ask you for a dime."

"Hi, there! get out of this," harshly exclaimed a Park policeman, who had stolen upon us unawares. "Didn't I tell you I'd give you a taste of me club if I caught you around here again?"

"Shades of Scott, and Burns, and Shakespeare!" muttered the tramp as he shuffled off. "Has it come to this—that your most ardent devotee should be the sport and jest of a sparrow cop?"—M. Quad.

INSULTED THE FLAG.

HARRISON ON THE CHILI AFFAIR.

WASHINGTON, JAN. 25.—The President, in his message to congress, states that the time has come in his opinion, when he should submit to that body the diplomatic correspondence with Chili. After complimenting the course pursued by Minister Egan throughout the trouble, the president refers to the unwarrantable espionage maintained over the United States legation at Santiago, thereby showing the grossest disrespect to this nation.

The president continues: "This breach of the right of a minister to freedom from police espionage and restraint seems so flagrant that the Argentine minister, who was dean of the diplomatic corps, having observed it, felt called upon to protest against it to the Chilian minister of foreign affairs. The Chilian authorities have, as will be observed from the correspondence, charged the refugees and the inmates of the legation with insulting the police, but it seems to me incredible that men whose lives were in jeopardy and whose safety could only be secured by retirement and quietness should have sought to provoke a collision which could only end in their destruction, or to aggravate their condition by intensifying a popular feeling that at one time so threatened the legation as to require Mr. Egan to appeal to the minister of foreign affairs."

MARTYRS TO THEIR FLAG.

In referring to the murder of the sailors of the Baltimore, the president says: "We have received from the Chilian government an abstract of the conclusions of the fiscal general upon the testimony taken by the judge of crimes in an investigation which was made to extend over nearly three months. I very much regret to be compelled to say that this report does not enable me to modify the conclusion announced in my annual message. I am still of the opinion that our sailors were assaulted, beaten, stabbed and killed, not for anything they or any one of them had done, but for what the government of the United State had done, or was charged with having done, by its civil officer and naval commanders. If that be the true aspect of the case, the injury was to the government of the United States, not to these poor sailors who were assaulted in a manner so brutal and so cowardly.

"It is not claimed that every personal collision or injury in which a sailor or officer of such naval vessel visiting the shore may be involved raises an international question; but I am clearly of the opinion that where such sailors or officers are assaulted by a resident populace, animated by hostility to the government whose uniform these sailors and officers wear, and in resentment of acts done by their government, not by them, their nation must take notice of the event as one involving an infraction of its rights and dignity, not in a secondary way as where a citizen is injured and presents his claim through his own government, but in a primary way, precisely as if its minister or consul or the flag itself had been the object of the same character or assault."

A BRUTAL OUTRAGE.

The president then recites the assault of the mob upon the United States, and continues:

"No amount if evasion or subterfuge is able to cloud our clear vision of this brutal work. It should be noticed, in this connection, that the American sailors arrested, after an examination were, during the four days following the arrest, every one discharged, no charge of any breach of the peace or other criminal conduct having been sustained against a single one of them.

"The communication of the Chilian government in relation to the cruel and disastrous attack upon our men, as will appear from the correspondence, have not in any degree taken the form of a manly and satisfactory expression of regret, much less of apology. The event was of so serious a character that if the injuries suffered by our men had been wholly the result of an accident in a Chilian port, the incident was grave enough to have called for some public expression of sympathy and regret from the local authorities. It is not enough to say that the affair was lamentable, for humanity would require that expression even if the beating and killing had been justifiable.

"It is not enough to say that the incident is regretted, coupled with the statement that the affair was not of an unusual character in ports where foreign sailors are accustomed to meet. It is not for a generous and sincere government to seek for words of small or equivocal meaning in which to convey to a friendly power an apology for an offense so atrocious as this.

In our note of October 23rd last, which appears in the correspondence, after receiving the report of the board of officers appointed by Captain Schley to investigate the affair, the Chilian government was advised of the aspect which it then assumed and called upon for any facts in its possession that might tend to which our report had created. It is very clear from the correspondence, that before the receipt of this note, the examination was regarded by the police authorities as practically closed. It was, however, reopened and protracted through a period of nearly three months We might justly have complained of this unreasonable delay, but in view of the fact that the government of Chili was still provisional, and with a disposition to be forbearing and hopeful of a friendly termination, I have awaited the report which has but recently been made.

On the 21st inst. I caused to be communicated to the government of Chili by the American minister at Santiago the conclusions of this government after a full consideration of all the evidence and of every suggestion affecting this matter, and to these conclusions I adhere. They were stated as follows: First. That the assault is not relieved of the aspect which the early information of the event gave to it, viz: That of an attack upon the uniforms of the United States navy, having for its origin and motive in a feeling of hostility to this government, and not on any account of the sailors or of any of them. Second. That the public authorities of Valparaiso flagrantly failed in their duty to protect our men, and that some of them of the police and of the Chilian soldiers and sailors were themselves guilty of unprovoked assaults upon our sailors before and after arrest. He (the president) thinks the ponderance of the evidence and of the inherent probabilities lead to the conclusion that Riggin was killed by the police or soldiers. Third. That he (the president) is therefore compelled to bring the case back to the position taken by this government in the note of Mr Wharton on October 23 last, . . . and to ask for a suitable apology and some adequate reparation for the injury done to this country.

A GROSS INSULT.

"In the same note the attention of the Chilian government was called to the offensive character of a note addressed by Mr. Matta, its minister of foreign affairs, to Mr. Montt, its minister at this capital, on the 11th ult This dispatch was not officially communicated to this government; but, as Mr. Montt was directed to translate it and give it to the press of this country, it seemed to me that it could not pass without official notice. It was not only undiplomatic, but grossly insulting to our naval officers and to the executive department, as it directly imputed untruth and insincerity to the reports of the naval officers and to the official communications made by the executive department to congress. It will be observed that I have notified the Chilian government that unless this note is at once withdrawn and an apology as public as the offense made, I will terminate diplomatic relations.

"The request for the recall of Mr. Egan, upon the ground that he was not persona grata, was unaccompanied by any suggestion that could properly be used in support of it, and I infer that the request is based upon official acts of Mr. Egan, which have received the approval of this government. But, however that may be, I could not consent to consider such a question until it had first been settled whether our correspondence with Chili could be conducted upon a basis of mutual respect.

MUST FIGHT FOR THE FLAG.

"In submitting these papers to congress for that grave and patriotic consideration which the questions involved demand, I desire to say that I am of the opinion that the demands made of Chili by this government should be adhered to and enforced. If the dignity as well as the prestige and influence of the United States are not to be wholly sacrificed we must protect those who, in foreign ports, display the flag or wear the colors of this government against insult, brutality and death, inflicted in resentment of the acts of their government, and not for any fault of their own. It has been my desire in every way to cultivate friendly and intimate relations with all the governments of this hemisphere.

"We do not covet their territory; we desire their peace and prosperity. We look for no advantage in our relations with them, except the increased exchanges of commerce upon a basis of mutual benefit. We regret every civil contest that disturbs their peace and paralyses their development, and are always ready to give our good offices for the restoration of peace. It must, however, be understood that this government, while exercising the utmost forbearance towards weaker powers, will extend its strong and adequate protection to its citizens, to its officers and to its humblest sailor, when made the victims of wantonness and cruelty in resentment, not of their personal misconduct, but of the official acts of their government.

MUST RESPECT OUR SEAMEN.

"Upon information received that Patrick Shields, an Irishman and probably a British subject, but at the time a fireman of the American steamer Keweenaw, in the Harbor of Valparaiso, for repairs, had been subjected to personal injuries in that city—largely by the police—I directed the attorney general to cause the evidence of the officers and crew of that vessel to be taken upon its arrival in San Francisco, and that testimony is also herewith transmitted.

"The brutality and even savagery of the treatment of this poor man by the Chilian police would be incredible if the evidence of Shields was not supported by other direct testimony, and by the distressing condition of the man himself when he was finally able to reach his vessel. The captain of the vessel says: "He came back a wreck; black from his neck to his hips, from beating; weak and stupid, and is still in a kind of paralyzed condition and has never been able to do duty since.'

"A claim for reparation has been made in behalf of this man, for, while he was not a citizen of the United States, the doctrine long held by us, as expressed in the consular regulations, is: The principles which are maintained by this government in regard to the protection as distinguished from the relief of seamen are well settled. It is held that the circumstance that the vessel is American is evidence that the seamen on board are such; and in every regular documented merchant vessel the crew will find their protection in the flag that covers them.

"I have as yet received no reply to our note of the 21st inst., but in my opinion I ought not to delay longer to bring these matters to the attention of congress for such action as may be deemed appropriate."

SANTIAGO, Chili, Jan. 26.

The Chilian government has sent a reply to the ultimatum of the United States. The reply is in effect as follows:

"Chili agrees to withdraw the offensive note sent by Senor Matta to all the Chilian ministers abroad, and acknowledges that its issuance was due to an error of judgment. Chili also withdraws its request for the withdrawal of United States Minister Egan."

In addition to this the Chilian government, in its answer, proposes that the affair of the attack on the Baltimore's sailors in Valparaiso be submitted to the arbitration of some neutral nation. If this proposition is not acceptable to the United States government, the Chilian government suggests that the matter be submitted to the decision of the supreme court of the United States.

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other.

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." MRS. ELLA A. Judge Black's Favor from Porter.

Only within the last forty years has the office of Judge been elective in this State; before that Judges were appointed by the Governor. Some time in the forties the Judgeship of the district composed of Somerset, Bedford and Franklin became vacant. As a Democratic Governor was in the chair the appointment was, of course, conced d to that party; but there seems to have been two factions of the "Unterrified," each urging its own candidate. Judge Black was then a very young man, but a promising lawyer. No one, however, thought of him in connection with this office. However, he quietly packed his "grip" and set out for Harrisburg.

Arriving there he called on Governor Porter, whom he found in consultation with the late Victor E. Piollet, one of the State Canal Commissioners, and from him this story came. The Judge said: "Governor, I have come down to see you about that Judgeship up in the Somerset district. There are two factions up there, each having a candidate. If you appoint either candidate you are bound to offend the friends of his opponent, so I came here to see if you didn't think I would make a pretty good Judge" Then briefly stating his claims and leaving some papers with the Governor, he withdrew and at once started back to Somerset. After the Judge had left, Governor Porter turned to Piollet and said: "I am rather pleased with that tall young lawyer from Somerset. I must look into his case." The result was that the commission, duly signed by the Governor and bearing the seal of the Commonwealth, appointing Jeremiah S. Black President Judge of the district, soon followed the latter to Somerset.—Ex.

The Good Young Wife.

There is a young married woman of my acquaintance whose first wifely experience with the needle resulted in a capital joke on her. She found what appeared to be two immense rips on the inside of the tails of her husband's frock coat, and while he was downtown she carefully sewed them up. When the young man came home to lunch his wife met him, coat in hand.

"I've just mended it," she said; "there were two awful rips in the tail of it."

"Let me see," said the husband of the industrious young woman. "I didn't know there was a tear in it."

"Yes, there was; right there."

"But those are the——"

The young man caught the look of innocent doubt on his wife's face and stopped.

"Yes, those were fearful rips—things were getting in them all the time."

And the young man went down to his office and picked out the threads in order to get at his bankbook and a few letters that he had in those tail pockets.—Kansas City Times.

The Speakers Pennsylvania Has Produced.

Pennsylvania Speakers of the House of Representatives at Washington—there have been three of them—have filled important niches in the national history, and the reception to-day of the oil portraits of the living Galusha A. Grow and the dead Samuel J. Randall is therefore an event of interest to the entire country. The old Keystone State contributed the first Speaker. She also contributed the first and last clerk of Congress, counting the old Confederation Congress, where there was only one House, the style of which was the resounding but descriptive one of "The United States in Congress assembled"—a style that might well have been continued. To-day the mind can conceive the historic muse brooding over the Capitol, the figure of the preacher-soldier, F. A. Muhlenberg, from the far past, peering over one shoulder as the more distinct figure of Samuel J. Randall looms from behind the other and the mighty leaders of old-time Pennsylvania, the Franklins, the Wilsons, the Morrises, the Sargeants, the Stevenses, and others, people the background.—Washington Star (Ind.)

Let's reason together. Here's a firm, one of the largest the country over, the world over: it has grown, step by step, through the years to greatness—and it sells pateut medicines!—ugh!

"That's enough!"—

Wait a little—

This firm pays the newspapers good money (expensive work, this advertising!) to tell the people that they have faith in what they sell, so much faith that if they cant benefit or cure they don't want your money. Their guarantee is not indefinite and relative, but definite and absolute—if the medicine doesn't help, your money is "on call."

Suppose every sick man and every feeble woman tried these medicines and found them worthless, who would be the loser, you or they?

The medicines are Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," for blood diseases, and his "Favorite Prescription," for woman's peculiar ills. If they help toward health, they cost $1.00 a bottle each! If they don't, they cost nothing.

Yes! Roshon's Gallery will leave Bloomsburg April 1st, and if you want 12 fine cabinets for $1.00, now is your last chance. 29 2t.

"Thinking that a word from me might be the cause of others receving benefit from your S. S. S., I write to say that I have been a sufferer from Eczema, whch my doctor called pink heads. Small blisters would form on my limbs, would break and ooze, and cause large sores to form. The odor arising would be very disagreeable, and I would often be laid up from one to two weeks at a time. The disease would break out about every two months. I tried various physicians and treatments, but received no permanent relief until I was induced to try S. S. S., and felt the benefit from it in a few days. I continued the use of it until I had taken three bottles, which was over a year ago, and I have not had the Eczema since. I believe it is thoroughly eradicated from my system. I feel sure that S. S. WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25, 1892.

Speaker Crisp is himself again, and the new rules for the House being ready it is expected that the House will now begin to get down to the serious business of the session. The repulicans are making much of Mr. Mills having declined to serve as chairman of the Committee on Commerce, and they have made that the basis for a lot of cock and bull stories about his intending to antagonize on the floor of the House the separate trriff bills that may be reported from the Ways and Means committee. Mr. Mills is too good a democrat, proved by long and arduous service, to antagonize any policy that may be adopted by a democratic caucus, and there is little doubt that a caucus will soon be held for the purpose of outlining the party policy during the session.

It is probable that a joint caucus of the democratic Senators and Representatives will be held to discuss the Chilian correspondence and Mr. Harrison's message thereon. The message is lengthy and the correspondence and accompanying documents voluminous, and Senators and Members are chary of expressing opinions for publication until they have had an opportunity to carefully study and digest them. It is hoped and believed that Congress will act as a unit when it does act. Foreigners should be made to understand that however much we may differ on matters of internal government we stand shoulder to shoulder as united Americans on all matters pertaining to the foreign policy of the United States, and everybody should adopt the motto of the renowned patriot; "My country; may it always be right, but right or wrong, still my country."

Senators Voorhees and Turpie have made their fight against the confirmation of Judge Woods, of Indiana, so vigorous that even the republican members of the Senate Judiciary Committee befare which the matter now is, have agreed to wait the arrival of a number of witnesses, before disposing of the nomination. The charges involve the judicial integrity of Woods, as well as his display of political partisanship in his decisions, and the Indiana Senators say they will prove them by incontrovertible testimony.

The breath had hardly left the body of the late Justice Bradley, of the Supreme Court, who became so widely known in connection with the 8 to 7 decision of ihe Electoral Commission, before republican Senators and and representatives began to make combinations to control the nomination of his successor. The hopes of Attorney General Miller are again raised, but, it is not believed that the new Justice will be selected outside of the third district, composed of the States of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, Representative Coats, of Alabama, is in earnest about his bill authorizing National banks to loan money on real estate, and he made as trong argument in its favor before the House committee on Banking and Currency, taking the ground that it would largely increase the volume of currency, in circulation, increase the value of real estate and cause many people, particularly in the South and west, to find profitable employment who are now without it. He also spoke in favor of the bill to suspend the 10 per cent. tax on the circulating notes of the State banking associations.

Republicans can see a great deal better than democrats if they can, as they profess to do, see where any one of the gentlemen who have been named as possible candidates of the democrtic party for President will be specially benefited by holding the National Convention at Chicago, instead of at some other city. None of the members of the National Committee, nearly all of whom your correspondent talked with, regarded the selection as having any connection with any Presidential candidate. No matter what city had been selected the same cry would have been raised.

Secretary Foster's illness was very convenient, as it enabled him to get rid, temporarily at least, of appearing before the House Committee on Ways and Means and answering some questions as to the condition of the country's finances. His place was taken by Assistant Secretary Spaulding, who made a statement about on a par with the statements usually published by the Treasury. He was not subjected to much questioning, as it is the Secretary that the members of the Committee want to get at.

There are indications that all of the southern Representatives elected as members of the Farmers' Alliance will soon be openly acting with the democrats, believing that more will be gained for the oganization they represent by such alliance than by going with their colleagues from the northwest in to the third party movement.

I have been using Bull's Head Poultry Powder ever since the Spring of 1887, and have found it invaluable for fowls of all kinds.

A clever and versatile dialect star is James Reilly, who last night won a great deal of applause at Jacobs'. Mr. Reilly is the central figure in a play called "The Broommaker," which is obviously patterned so as to give the fullest opportunities of displaying his specialty attainments at the expense of the probabilities. The star originaly appears as a good-natured and sweet-voiced German of the "Fritz" Emmet type, but passes readily into an equally melodious and nimble-footed Celt. The specialty features are attractively added to by the Witmark Brothers, musical artists.—The New York Press May 19, 91. At Bloomsburg Opera House, Wednesday February 1st.

TO WORK THE CULM DUMPS.

IF AN EXPERIMENT PROVES SUCCESSFUL MILLIONS OF TONS OF COAL WILL BE THROWN UPON THE MARKET.

PLYMOUTH, Jan. 24.—To-morrow morning the new culm operator and washer will begin operations on the immense culm dumps of the old Washington Colliery.

Until within the last ten years, all sizes of coal smaller than stove were considered unmarketable, and were thrown out with the dust and refuse. In that way great piles of culm and coal, aggregating many millions of tons accumulated all through the anthracite regions Now that the smaller sizes of coal have become so valuable for manufacturing purposes, many inventors have been trying to solve the problem of the economical recovery of these sizes from the culm banks.

The separator and washer which will be started to-morrow is the first ever put in operation in Wyoming Valley for this purpose, and, if successful, will work a revolution in the trade, throwing on the market millions of tons of pea, chestnut and stove coal, and cheapening these sizes accordingly. The Washington culm bank is estimated to contain 1,500,000 tons of dust, slate and coal, of which fully forty per cent. will prove marketable. The machine will work 300 tons a day. Wyoming Valley holds more than 100 banks of equal size and richness which will all be worked if this experiment results profitably.

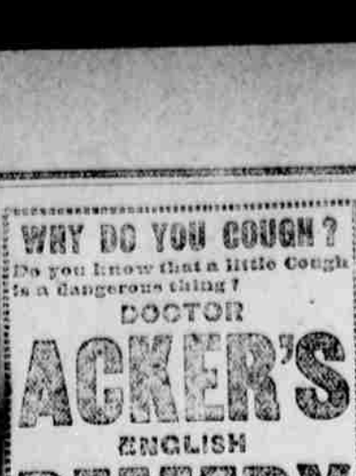
There's Music in the Air.



This genius is away up in G, and is engaged in the literal fulfillment of a very common expression. It is as seldom that musical notes are seen floating over housetops, as it is that bank notes are found growing on bushes. Our artist has therefore photographed them on the spot. The man in the picture is on top. So is J. Saltzer, the well known dealer in all kinds of musical instruments and sewing machines. He handles the Steck, Estey and Starr Pianos; the Estey, Miller and United States Organs:

CHICAGO GETS THE PRIZE.

Democratic National Convention to be Held There.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The Democratic National Committee last night selected Chicago as the place in which to hold the National Convention, and June 21 was fixed as the date. It took fifteen ballots to decide upon the place.

The result was a complete surprise and a bitter disappointment to all of the delegations sent here to "boom" their respective cities, most of them having incurred a very heavy expense in trying to secure the convention after having been assured by the Chicago leaders that they did not seek the honor and would make no effort to secure it. The feeling of resentment showed by the Milwaukee, Kansas City and Indianapolis men after the result was announced was unmistakable.

The Milwaukee men blamed the New Yorkers for the whole thing and declared that Chicago was selected because she had been favored by Senator Hill. They called a meeting of the delegation at their headquarters immediately after the announcement of the result and passed a resolution that the delegates from Wisconsin to the State Convention should be instructed to cast their votes for Cleveland. In the mean time the Kansas City and Indianapolis delegation got together in the main lobby and began to shout, "Cleveland! Cleveland! Grover, Grover Cleveland!" The Milwaukee men heard it and joined in the cry. The three delegations then marched through the lobbies, continuing the shouting as they went.

GREAT FIRE IN NEW YORK.

Several Stores Burned With a Loss of Nearly a Million.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The most destructive fire which has taken place in this city for some time occurred yesterday on the west side of Union Square. The five story brown stone building at Nos. 5, 7 and 9 was completely gutted and the loss will reach about three quarters of a million.

The fire started in the basement of Schneider, Campbell & Co.'s establishment. This house imports bronzes, clocks, vases and bric-a-brac, and manufactures expensive chandeliers and lighting fixtures. Brentano's big book store adjoining, was gutted. From this establishment the flames crept up to those of Charles E. Bentley & Co., dealers in trimmings; O. R. Worms, dealer in diamonds and watches, and Louis Rheims, importer of millinery goods.

Tiffinany's big jewelry store had a narrow escape. Conservative insurance men place the loss at about $750,000. The stock of Schneider, Campbell & Co. was valued at $200,000, and that of Brentano Brothers at the same figure. Louis Rheims carried nearly $250,000 worth of millinery goods. O. R. Worms' stock was valued at $40,000 and the losss on the building Nos. 5, 7 and 9 Union square is estimated at $65,000. No. 18 East Fifteenth street, which was occupied by Davis, Reed & Alexander, mantles; Hoskins & Sewell, brass bedsteads, and A. J. Mackintosh, feathers, was damaged to the extent of about $20,000.

JUSTICE BRADLEY DEAD.

He Leaves a Vacancy on the United States Supreme Court Bench.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Joseph P. Bradley, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, died yesterday morning at his home here of general debility. Justice Bradley was seventy-nine years of age.

Joseph P. Bradley was born in Berne, Albany county, N. Y., on March 14, 1813. He entered Rutgers College at the age of twenty and graduated with honors in 1836.

In 1839 he was admitted to the bar. He practiced for thirty years in Newark and was highly successful.

President Grant appointed him a Justice of the United States Supreme Court in March, 1870. He was assigned to the Southern circuit. Subsequently, on the resignation of Justice Strong, he was assigned to the Third circuit, embracing the States of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

OHIO'S SHIP WATERWAY SCHEME.

One of Her Canals May be Transformed Into Something More Important.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 25.—The much-talked-of-scheme of turning one of Ohio's canals into a ship waterway which will connect the lakes with the gulf has again bobbed up in the Legislature.

A resolution will be offered providing for a commission to draft a proposition to be submitted to Congress, tendering the Ohio canal to the general government on condition that the necessary improvement be made so that ships can pass from Lake Erie to the Ohio river.

NINETEEN BURNED TO DEATH.

Hospital Patients Roasted in a Fire at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 22.—The Indiana Surgical Institute burned last night, the flames breaking out just before midnight in the old annex, a block separated from the main building by just a narrow space. Before the fire was discovered the whole interior was ablaze. The institute had about 500 inmates, most of whom were helpless cripples.

At 10 o'clock this morning nineteen bodies had been taken from the ruins, some of which had been identified.

Democratic Convention, Feb. 23.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—The Democratic State Convention to elect delegates to the National Convention, which meets in Chicago, June 21, will be held in Albany, February 22. This was decided by the unanimous vote of the State Committee at the Hoffman House yesterday.

Rather Be Without Bread. XI

BISHOP'S RESIDENCE, Marquette, Mich., Nov. 7, 1889.

The Rev. J. Kosshiel, of above place, writes: I have suffered a great deal, and whenever I now feel a nervous attack coming I take a dose of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic and feel relieved. I think a great deal of it and would rather be without bread than without the Tonic.

Why Reading's Stockholders Cheered.

THE ROADS SPLENDID SHOWING FOR LAST YEAR.

Corporation meetings are not usually demonstrative. On the contrary, as a rule, such gatherings are characterized by cold-blooded and business-like reticence. It must therefore, have been peculiarly gratifying to President McLeod, of the Reading Railroad, when, at the annual meeting of that corporation the other day, the stockholders applauded the unexpected favorable report of his administration of their great property during the past year.

The results accomplished and the gains achieved in every department of the Company's business during a year when other railroads have barely succeeded in holding their own, have scarcely a parallel in railway history, and constitute a most emphatic endorsement of the integrity and ability of the road's present management.

As compared with 1890, the business of the railroad itself for 1891 shows an increase in net earnings of $1,669.216.44, and an increase in profits of $1,510,038.82, while the Coal and Iron Company's operations exhibit an increase of $633,823.94 in net earnings, and a total gain over the previous year of $640,423,67, making a total gain, for the two companies, of $2,150 462,49.

The net amount set aside as profits for 1891 is considerably more than double that of 1890. Out of this there will be paid the full interest, 5 per cent., on the first preference income bonds, and 4½ per cent. on the second preferences. That the management did not strain a point to pay the full five per cent. on the latter securities is evidence that Mr. McLeod will not descend to questionable methods on order to make a good showing.

Many interesting facts are to be gleaned from the President's report. From it we learn that the Reading Railroad Company is one of the greatest land owners in the Union, its vast estates, comprising coal, iron ore and timber lands, aggregating upwards of 194,000 acres. The Company owns at least 50 per cent. of all the anthracite coal remaining unmined in Pennsylvania. The Reading is also a landlord on a very large scale, owning 2746 dwelling houses, built upon its lands, and for the most part occupied by miners and other employees.

To operate the mines there is employed a force of 24,754 men and boys, and it will surprise most people outside of the "region" to learn that of this number only 9709 are foreign born. 2600 horses and mules, 18 locomotives and 7272 mine cars are in use underground to move the coal from the chambers to the breakers. Among the commodities used at the mines annually are 2000 tons of blasting powder, 140 tons of dynamite, and for horse feed 250,000 bushels of grain and 6200 tons of hay.

There are 16,783 men on the railroad's rolls; these added to the army employed about the colleries make a total of 41,537, to whom were paid for wages during the year $1,237,262.70. It may be estimated that fully 200,000 persons depend directly for support upon the earnings of the Readings employees. For supplies of various kinds the Company disburses millions of dollars annually, and the re-distribution of these vast sums among the population in general is suggestive of the interdependent relations existing between this corporation and the communities in which it operates.

Altogether the report is most gratifying, not only to the holders of Reading securities, but also to the public at large, as demonstrating the complete financial as well as physical rehabilitation of a great and important property.

Did you ever count up how much you pay for lamp chimneys? There are about twelve million families of us. We average, maybe, a lamp a family; chimneys break, perhaps, at the rate of one a week a lamp. Six hundred million chimneys a year for the ash barrels.

Suppose they cost ten cents a piece on the average; that's enough to half pay the national debt. Nine-tenths of it waste.

If you get Macbeth's "Pearl-top" or "Pearl-glass" you will pay a trifle more apiece, but not one-tenth as much a year.

Disreputable chimney makers are trying to furnish the dealers with cheap imitations. They break from heat, ruin the temper of the household and fill the ash barrels; a plague and a nuisance.

Insist on having the right kind.

Cured By Using

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It leads all others.

"In January, 1889, I was taken down with measles and scarlet fever, and exposing myself too soon, caught a severe cold which settled on my lungs. I was forced to take to my bed and was so ill that the doctors despaired of my recovery, supposing me to be in quick consumption. Change of climate was recommended, but I began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and soon found relief. After using several bottles, I was cured, so that I am now as well and rugged as ever."—John Dillander, Cranesman of Steam Shovel, G. S. & S. F. R. R. Co., Justin, Texas.
